National Ski Council Federation Holds Annual Meeting at Jackson, Wyoming

The National Ski Council Federation held its 2019 Annual Meeting Sept. 5-8 at the Springhill Suites by Marriott, Jackson, Wyoming.

Participating were council delegates, Federation officers and committee chairs representing 20 councils whose member clubs span the United States. Nineteen ski industry representatives participated in the meeting.

“Our annual meeting provides ski council delegates and industry representatives the opportunity to come together to discuss subjects of mutual interest and to understand them from our different perspectives,” said Lisa Beregi, NSCF president.

Participants discussed a variety of topics of interest to ski clubs and councils and the ski industry. Topics included the impact of AirBNB and VRBO on traditional business models; an update on the EPIC and IKON passes; club, council and ski industry relationships; managing unexpected issues on ski trips; attracting new club members; and long-range organizational planning.

Delegates elected the following officers to serve for two years: President, Lisa Beregi (Crescent Ski Council – Southeastern U.S); Vice President, Cheryl Mann (Texas Ski Council); Treasurer, Greg Schmid (Cleveland Metropolitan Ski Council); and Secretary, Sheri Parshall (Northwest Ski Club Council).

The Federation’s third annual virtual silent auction will be open Oct. 1 and will run for 45 days. It will be accessible from the NSCF website, www.skifederation.org. NSCF is grateful to our many contributors of items to the auction.
